

“Good design is intelligence made visible.”

LE CORBUSIER

Table of Contents

Introduction

Work by Project

5 Bucktown Single Family Home

12 Lake Forest Mid-Century Modern Single Family

18 Alaska Vacation Home

24 Mies Van Der Rohe Condo

29 Old Town Vintage Single Family

34 South Loop Condo

Contact

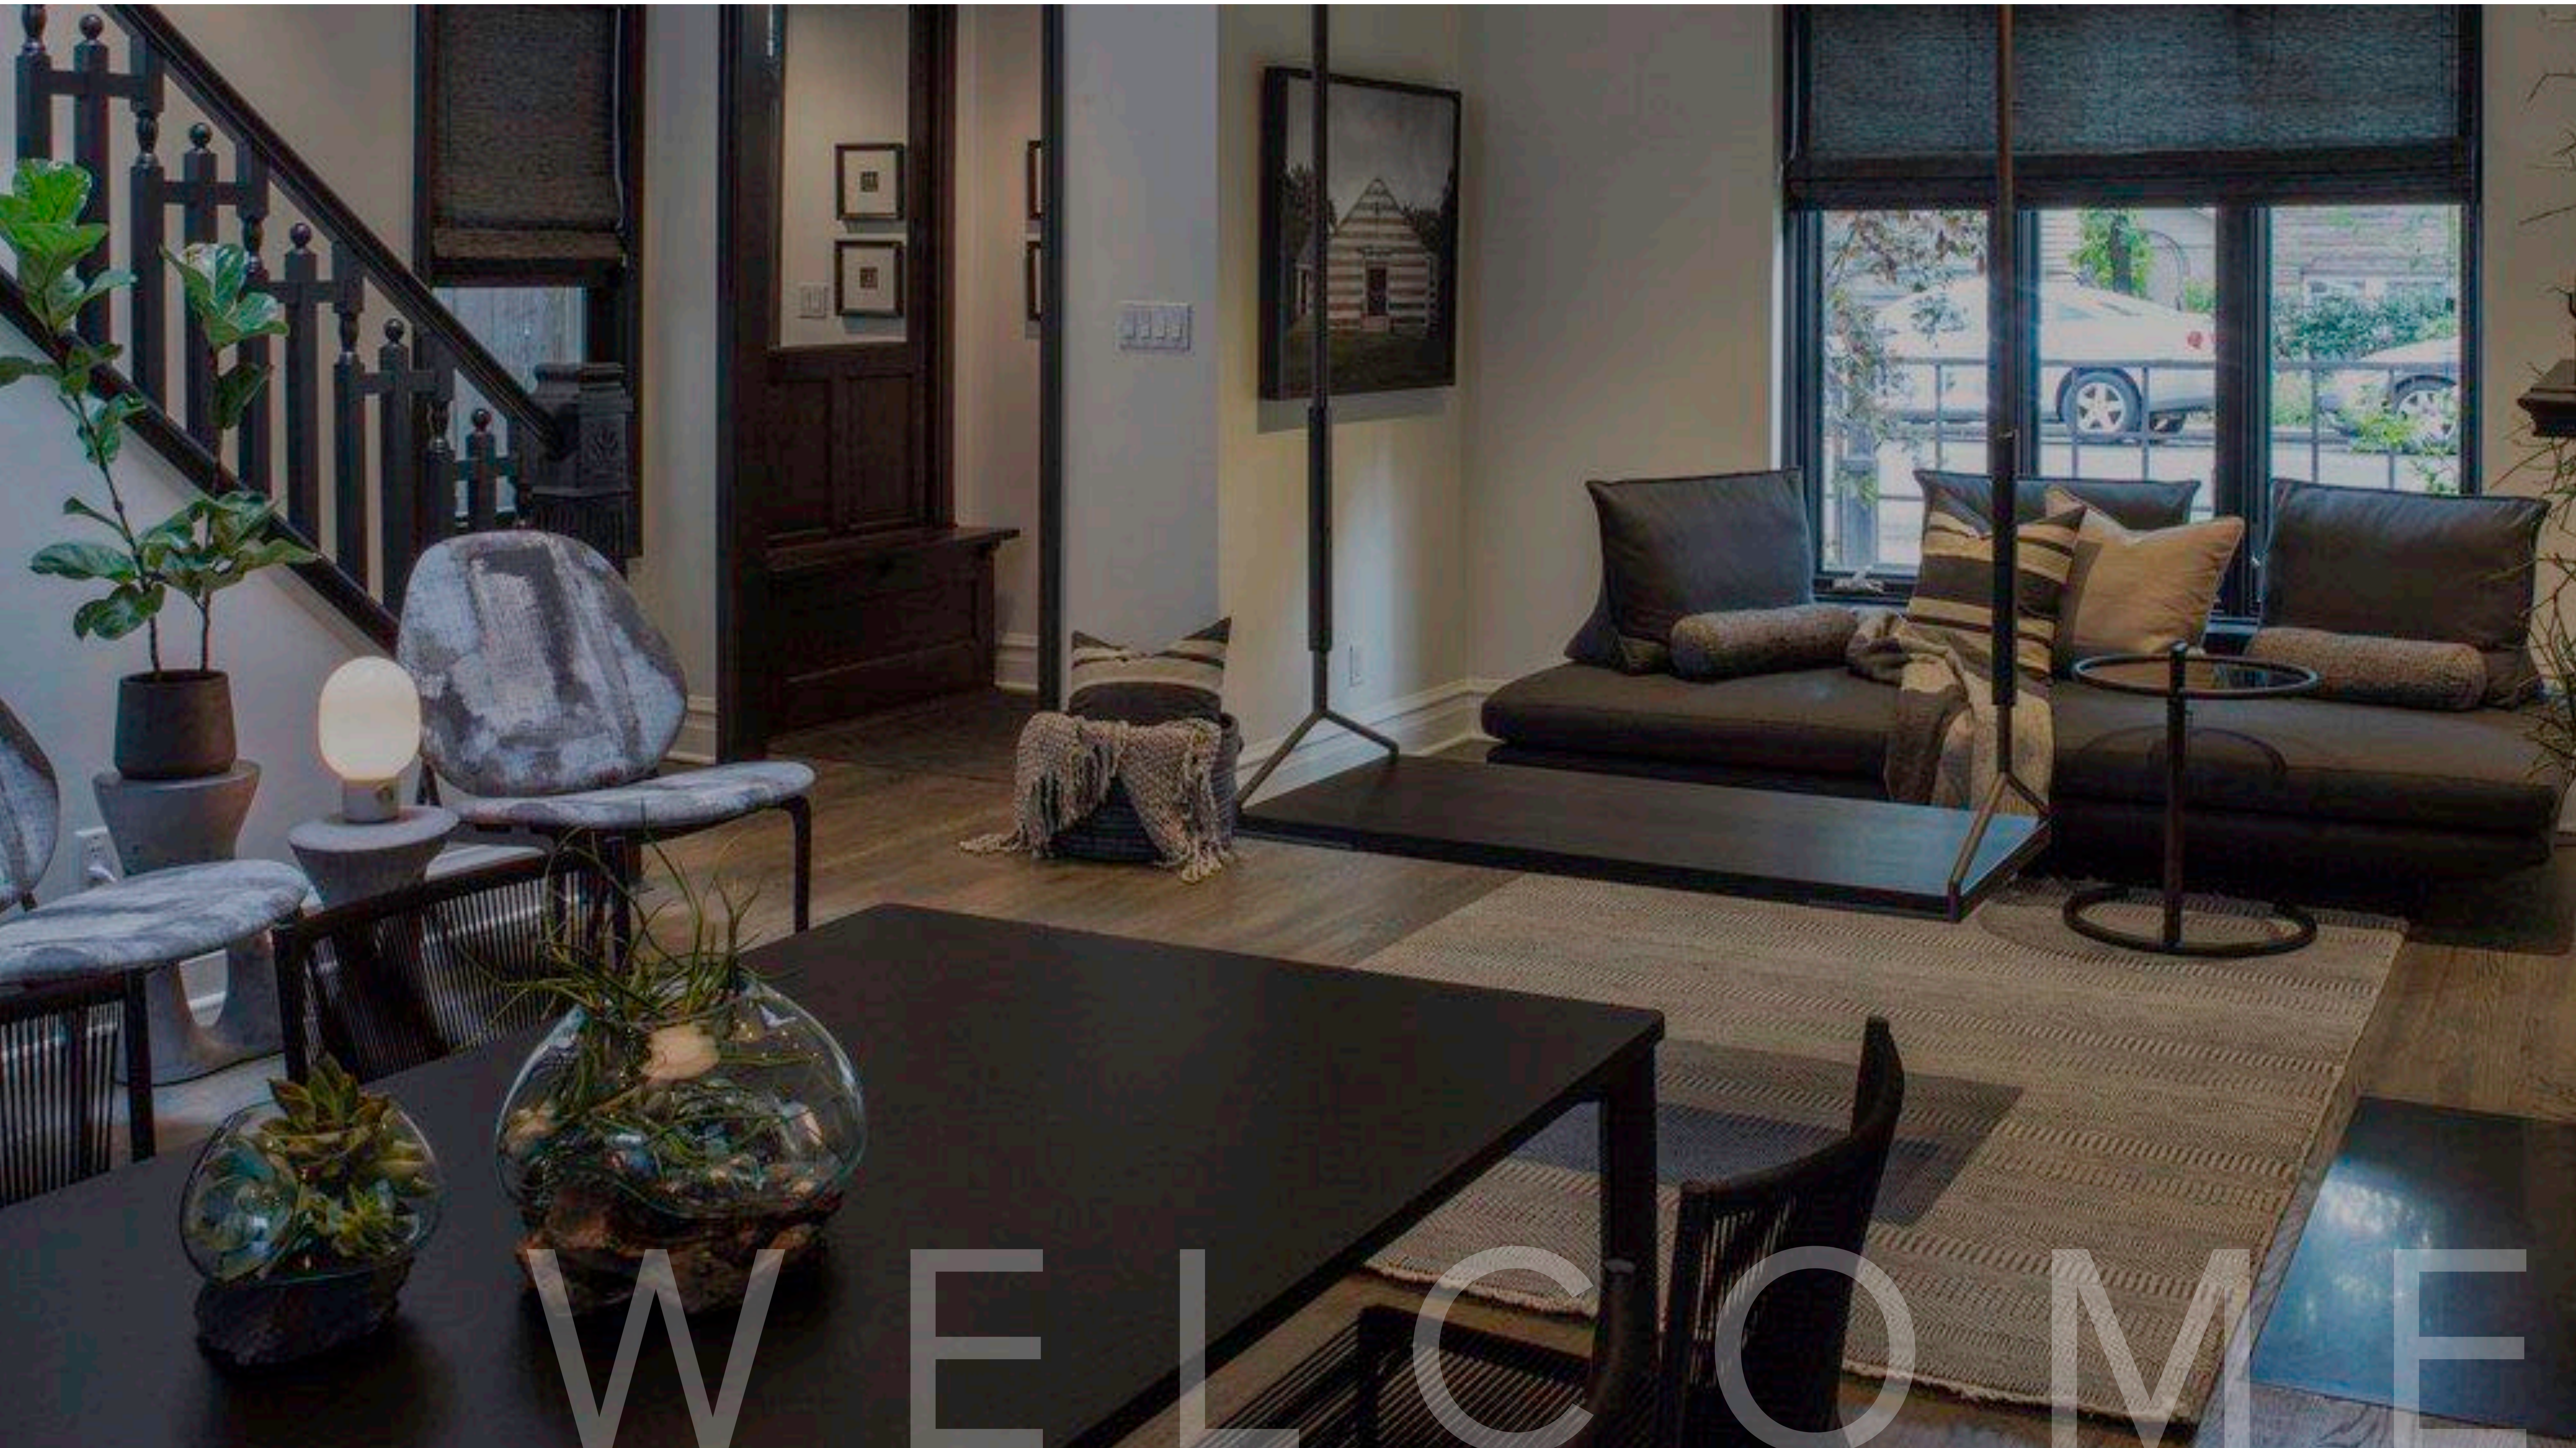

Every design is about more than just the space.

A beautiful life well-lived goes far beyond the surface. Beyond depth, texture, personality, and warmth. It's about the people who inhabit these spaces and the stories you have to tell. We love being the storytellers of the space you get to call home, and while we love aesthetics in all their iterations, it's the beauty within that gives us the most joy.

Wherever you are, welcome home.

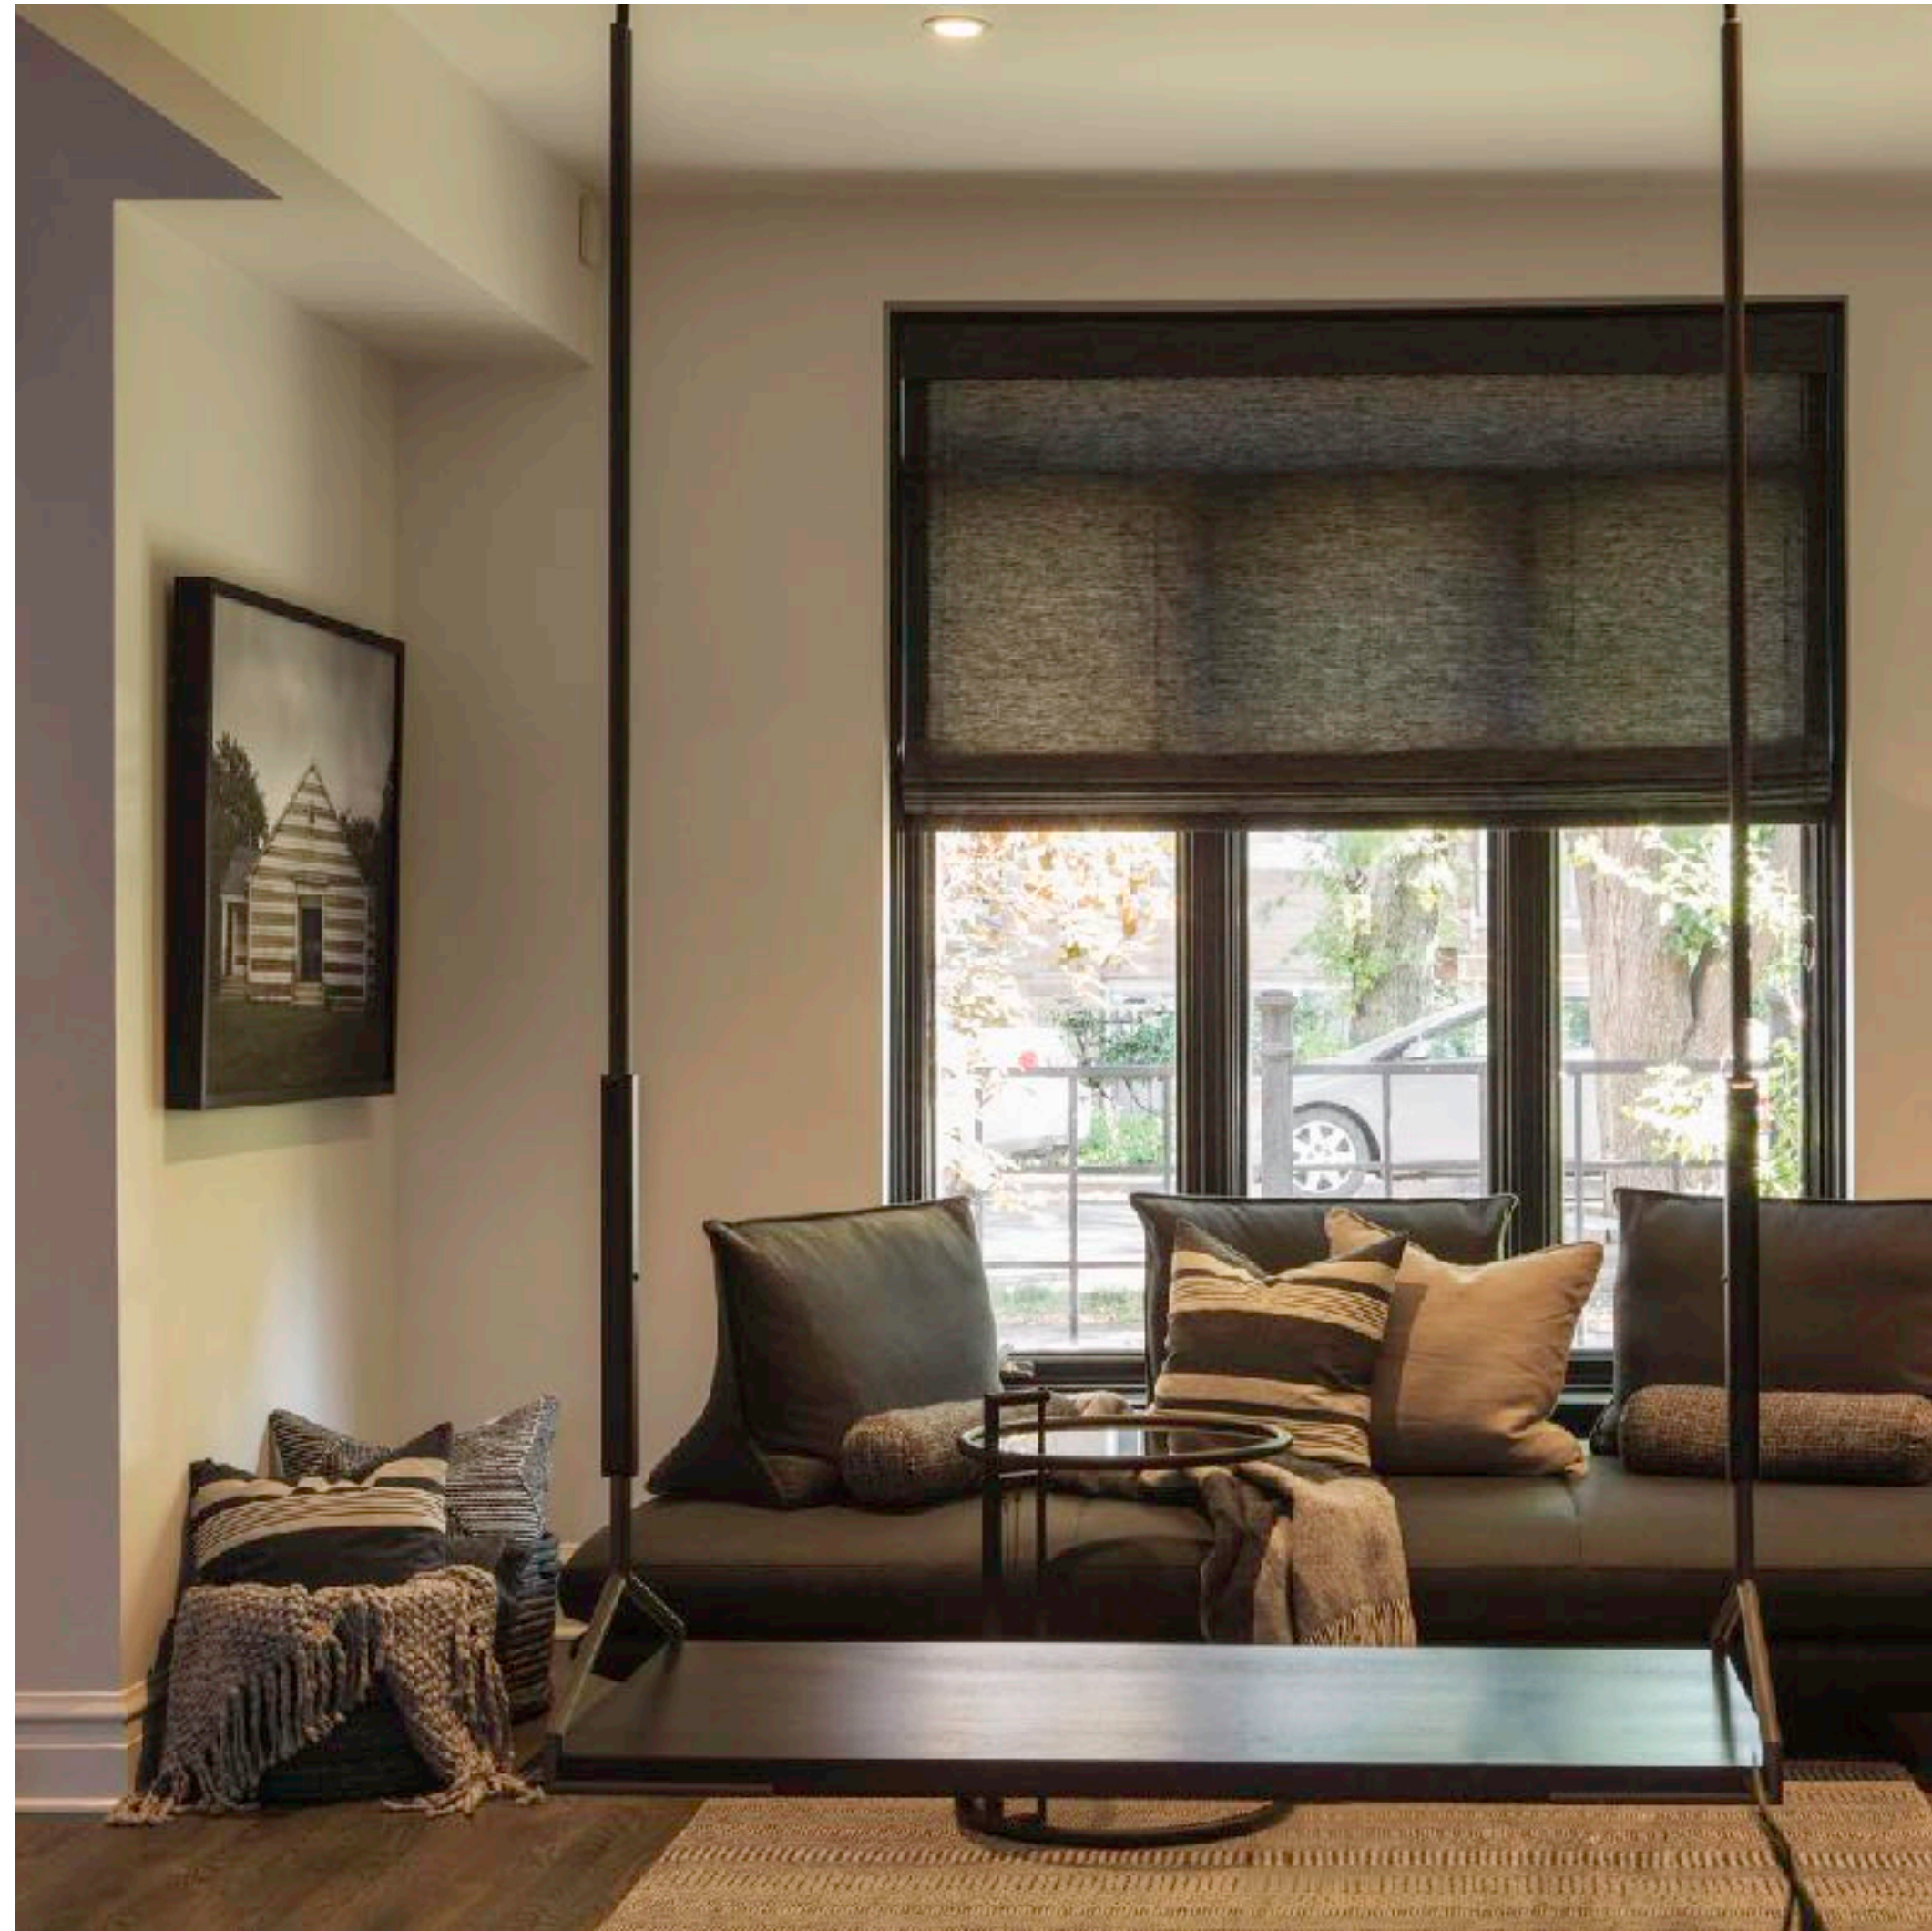

WELCOME

A well designed space contains exactly what it needs. Nothing more. Perfect architectural details, a well considered material palette, functionality, and a healthy dose of personality.

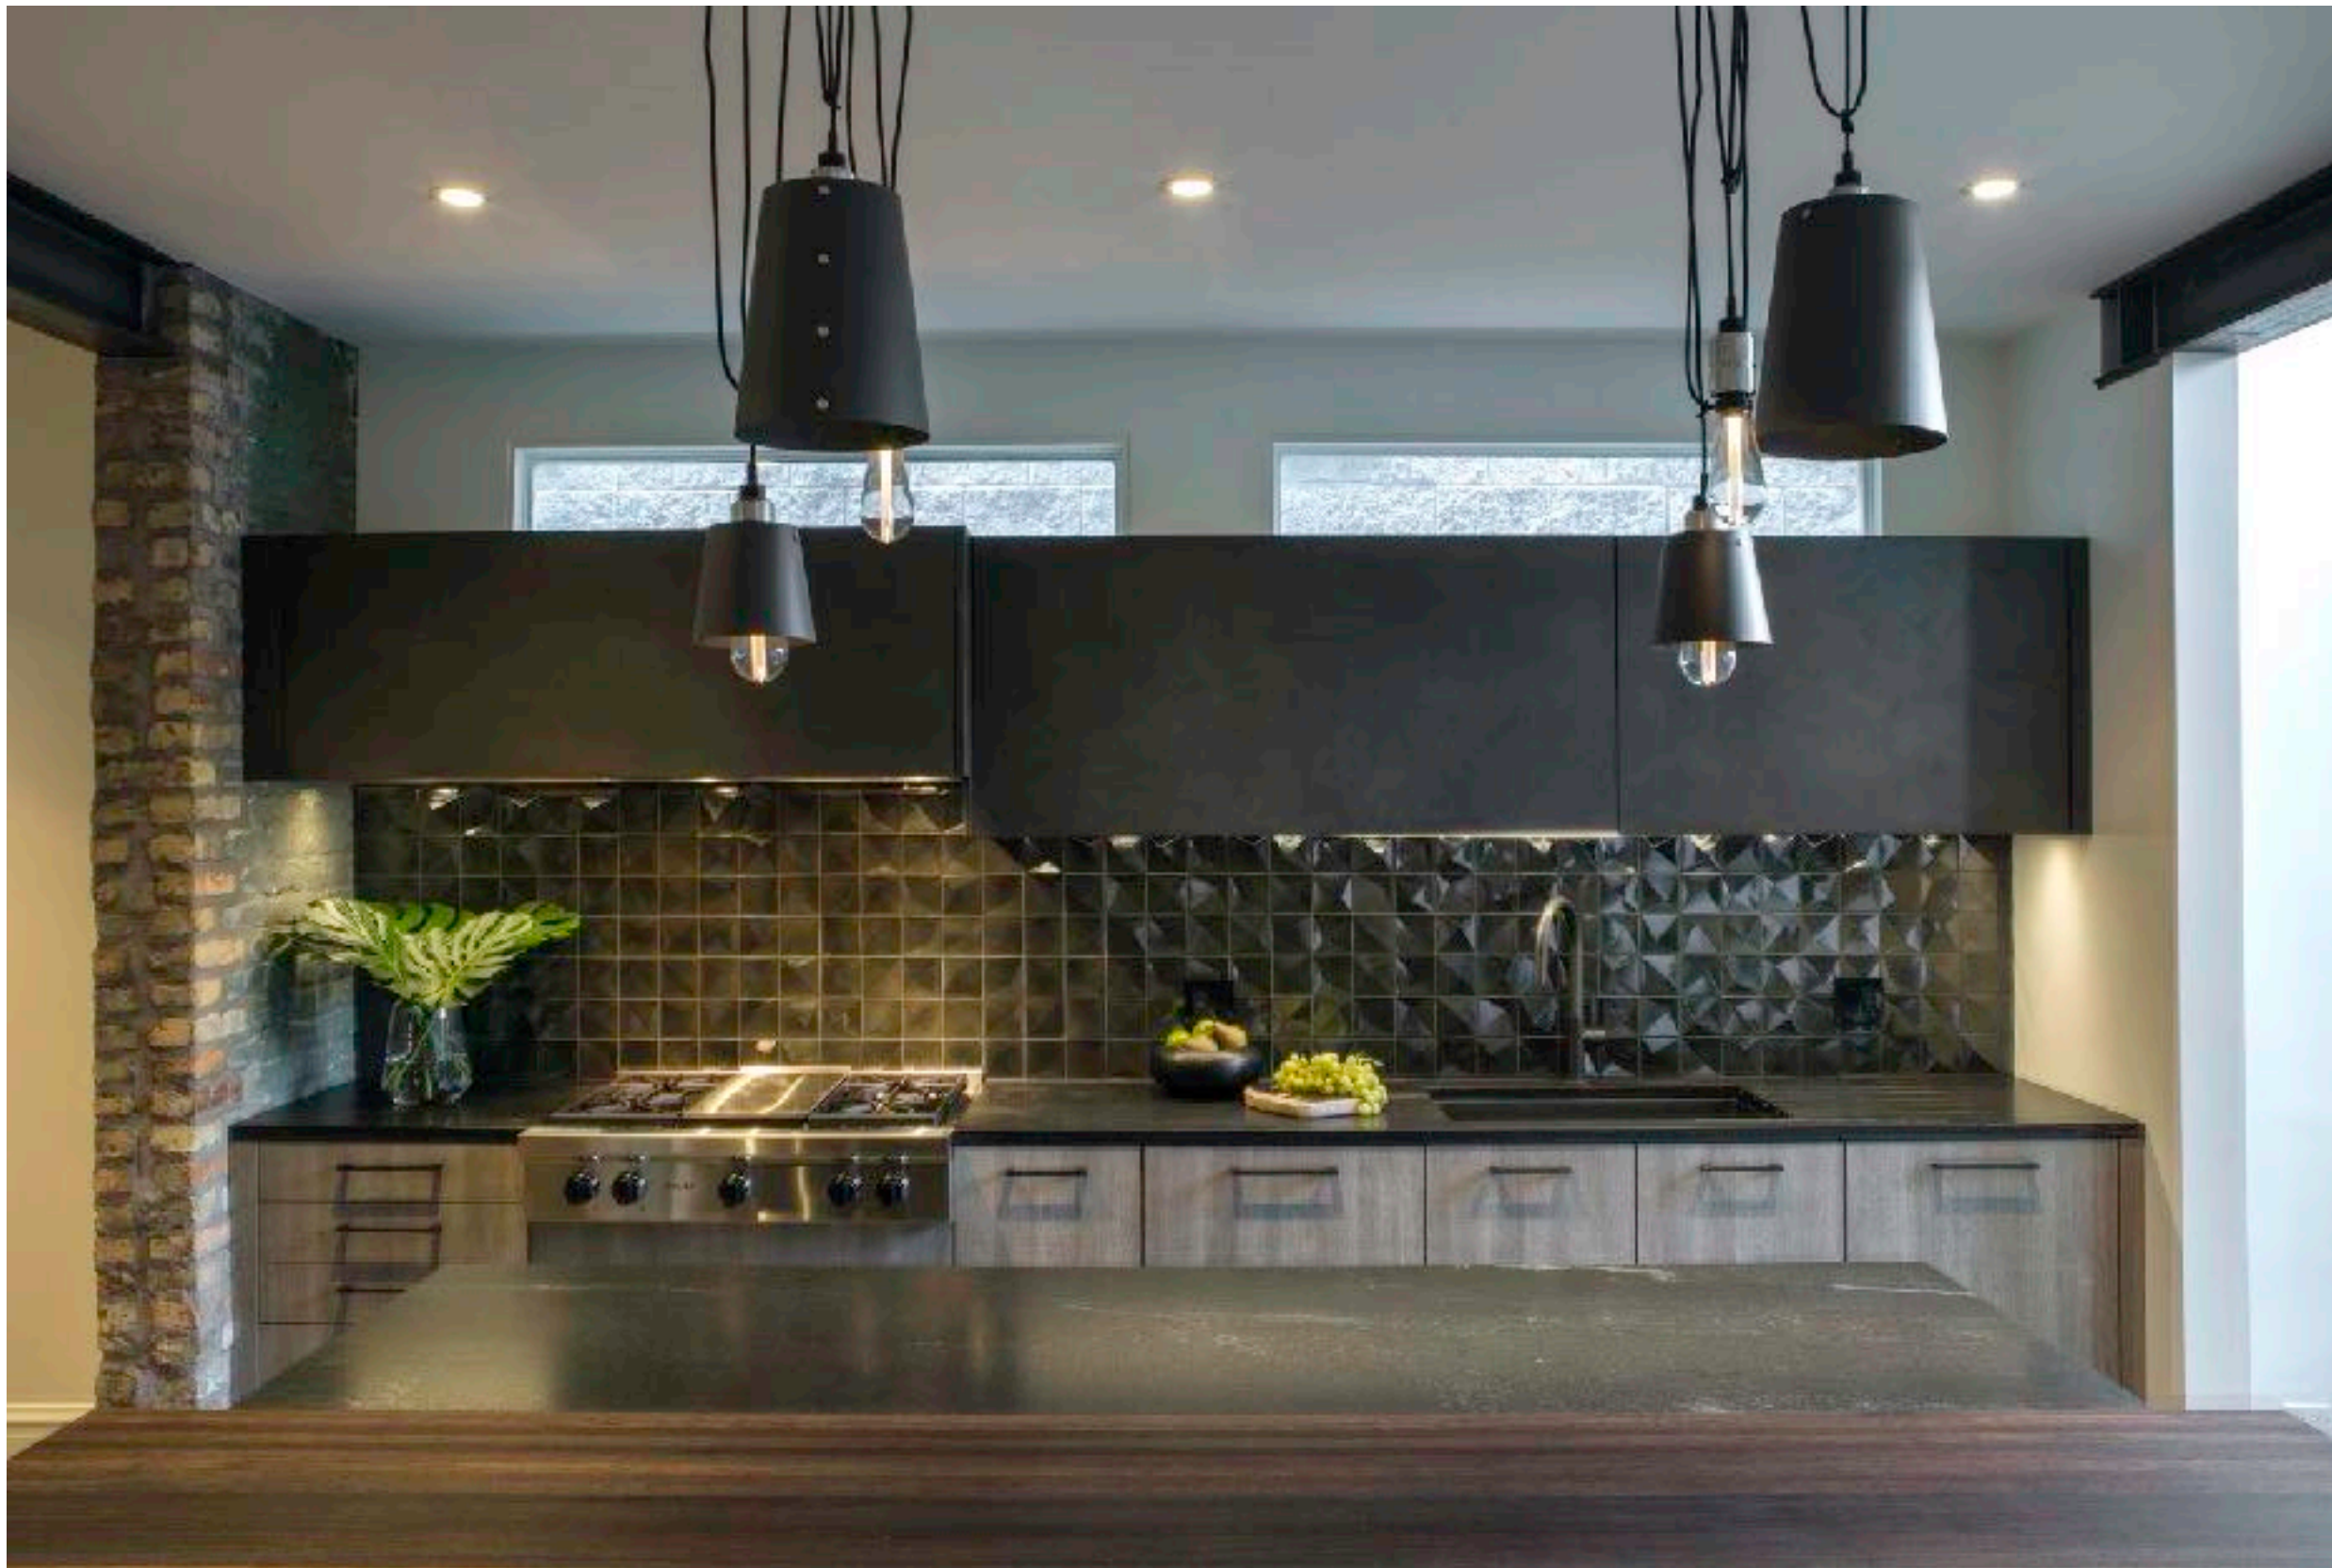

In our Bucktown Single Family home project, we made major structural changes to open up the floorplan of this 1880's home.

Support walls swapped out for I-beams lead the charge on breathing light and modernity into the space.

We rounded out the space with a kitchen redesign focused on high-functionality as much as beauty.

“Honest” building materials, and a warm, neutral design palette give the home an edgy, modern vibe.

Through the intersection of art and design we blend culture and time. We pair quiet moments with bold statements. We honor the voice of the unique being for which we design.

NMI brought this quintessential Mid-Century modern ranch back to its roots through a full interior architecture and interior design project.

We redesigned the kitchen, redefined passageways between the kitchen and dining room and expanded all major window openings.

We blended contemporary and iconic pieces, along with beautiful millwork across the foyer, media, fireplace and hall bookcase to create a “lived-in” feel for the growing family of four that called it home.

Home. A place to rest one's head. To depart from the monotony of the day. Enter a world drawn up by the subconscious; a restorative head space. A place to revive, romanticize, connect, ground, inspire your own epic life story.

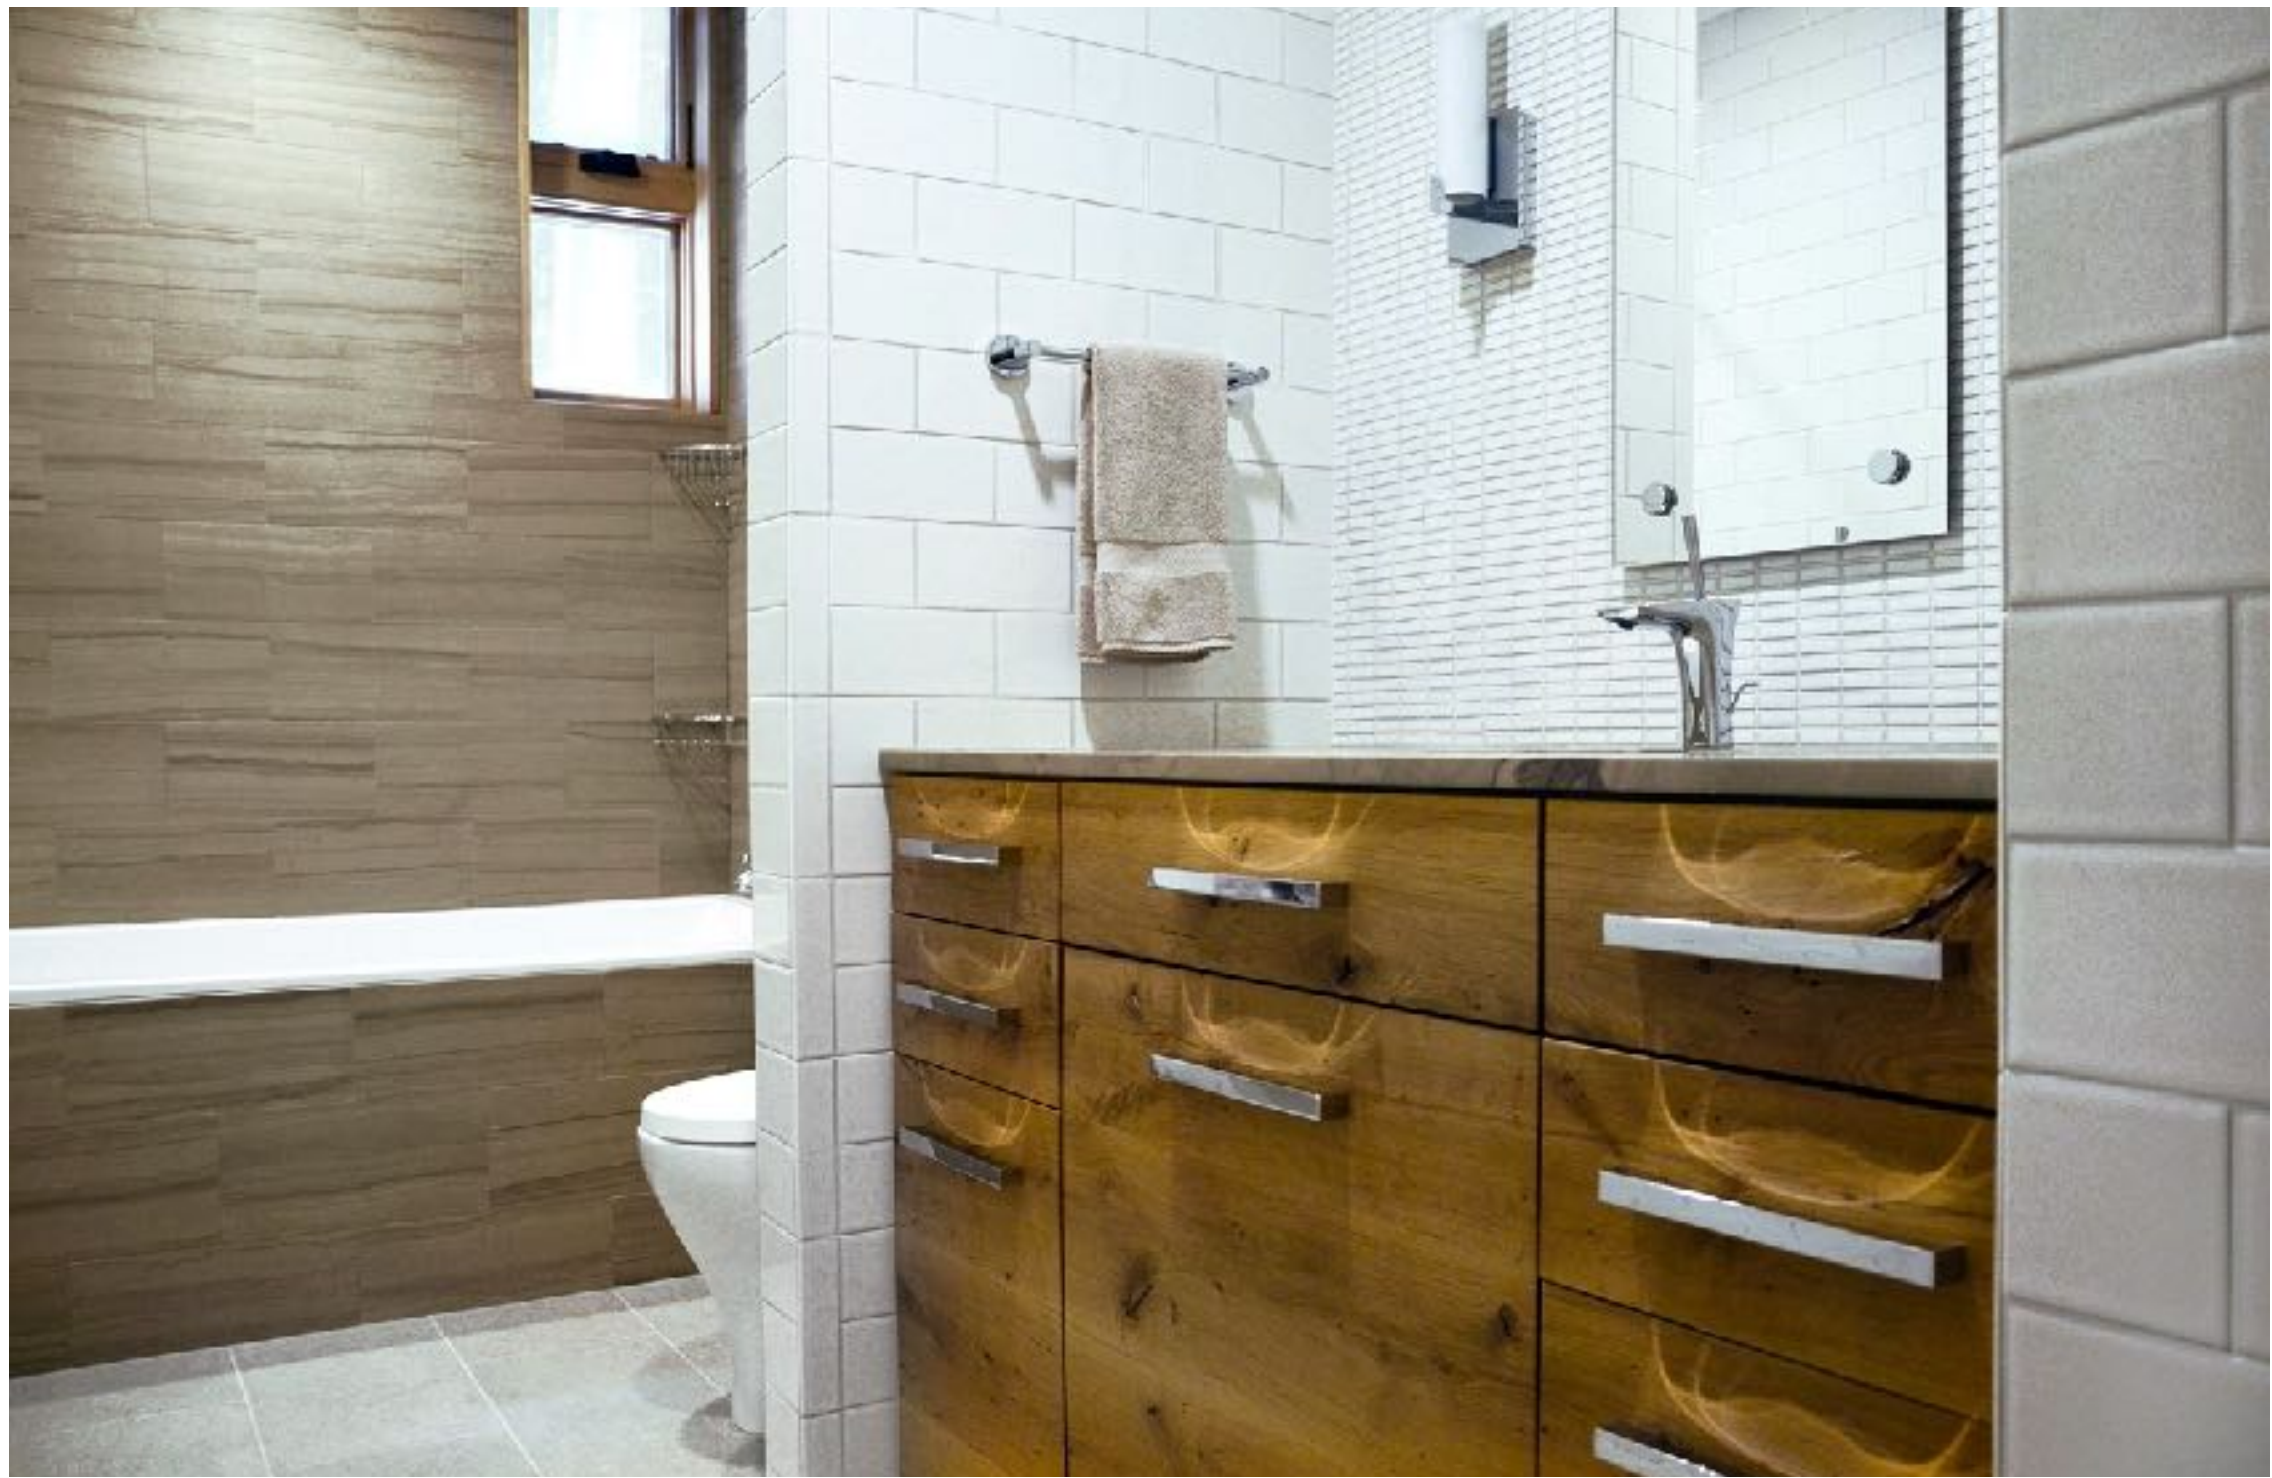

NMI was brought in during the early stages of development for this home, located in Girdwood, Alaska, just five minutes outside of the famed Alyeska Ski Resort.

We worked with Girdwood-based Z Architects to blur the lines between indoor and outdoor through interior/exterior detail and full-scale kitchen and bathroom design.

The result was a space that honors its beautiful location while providing maximum relaxation.

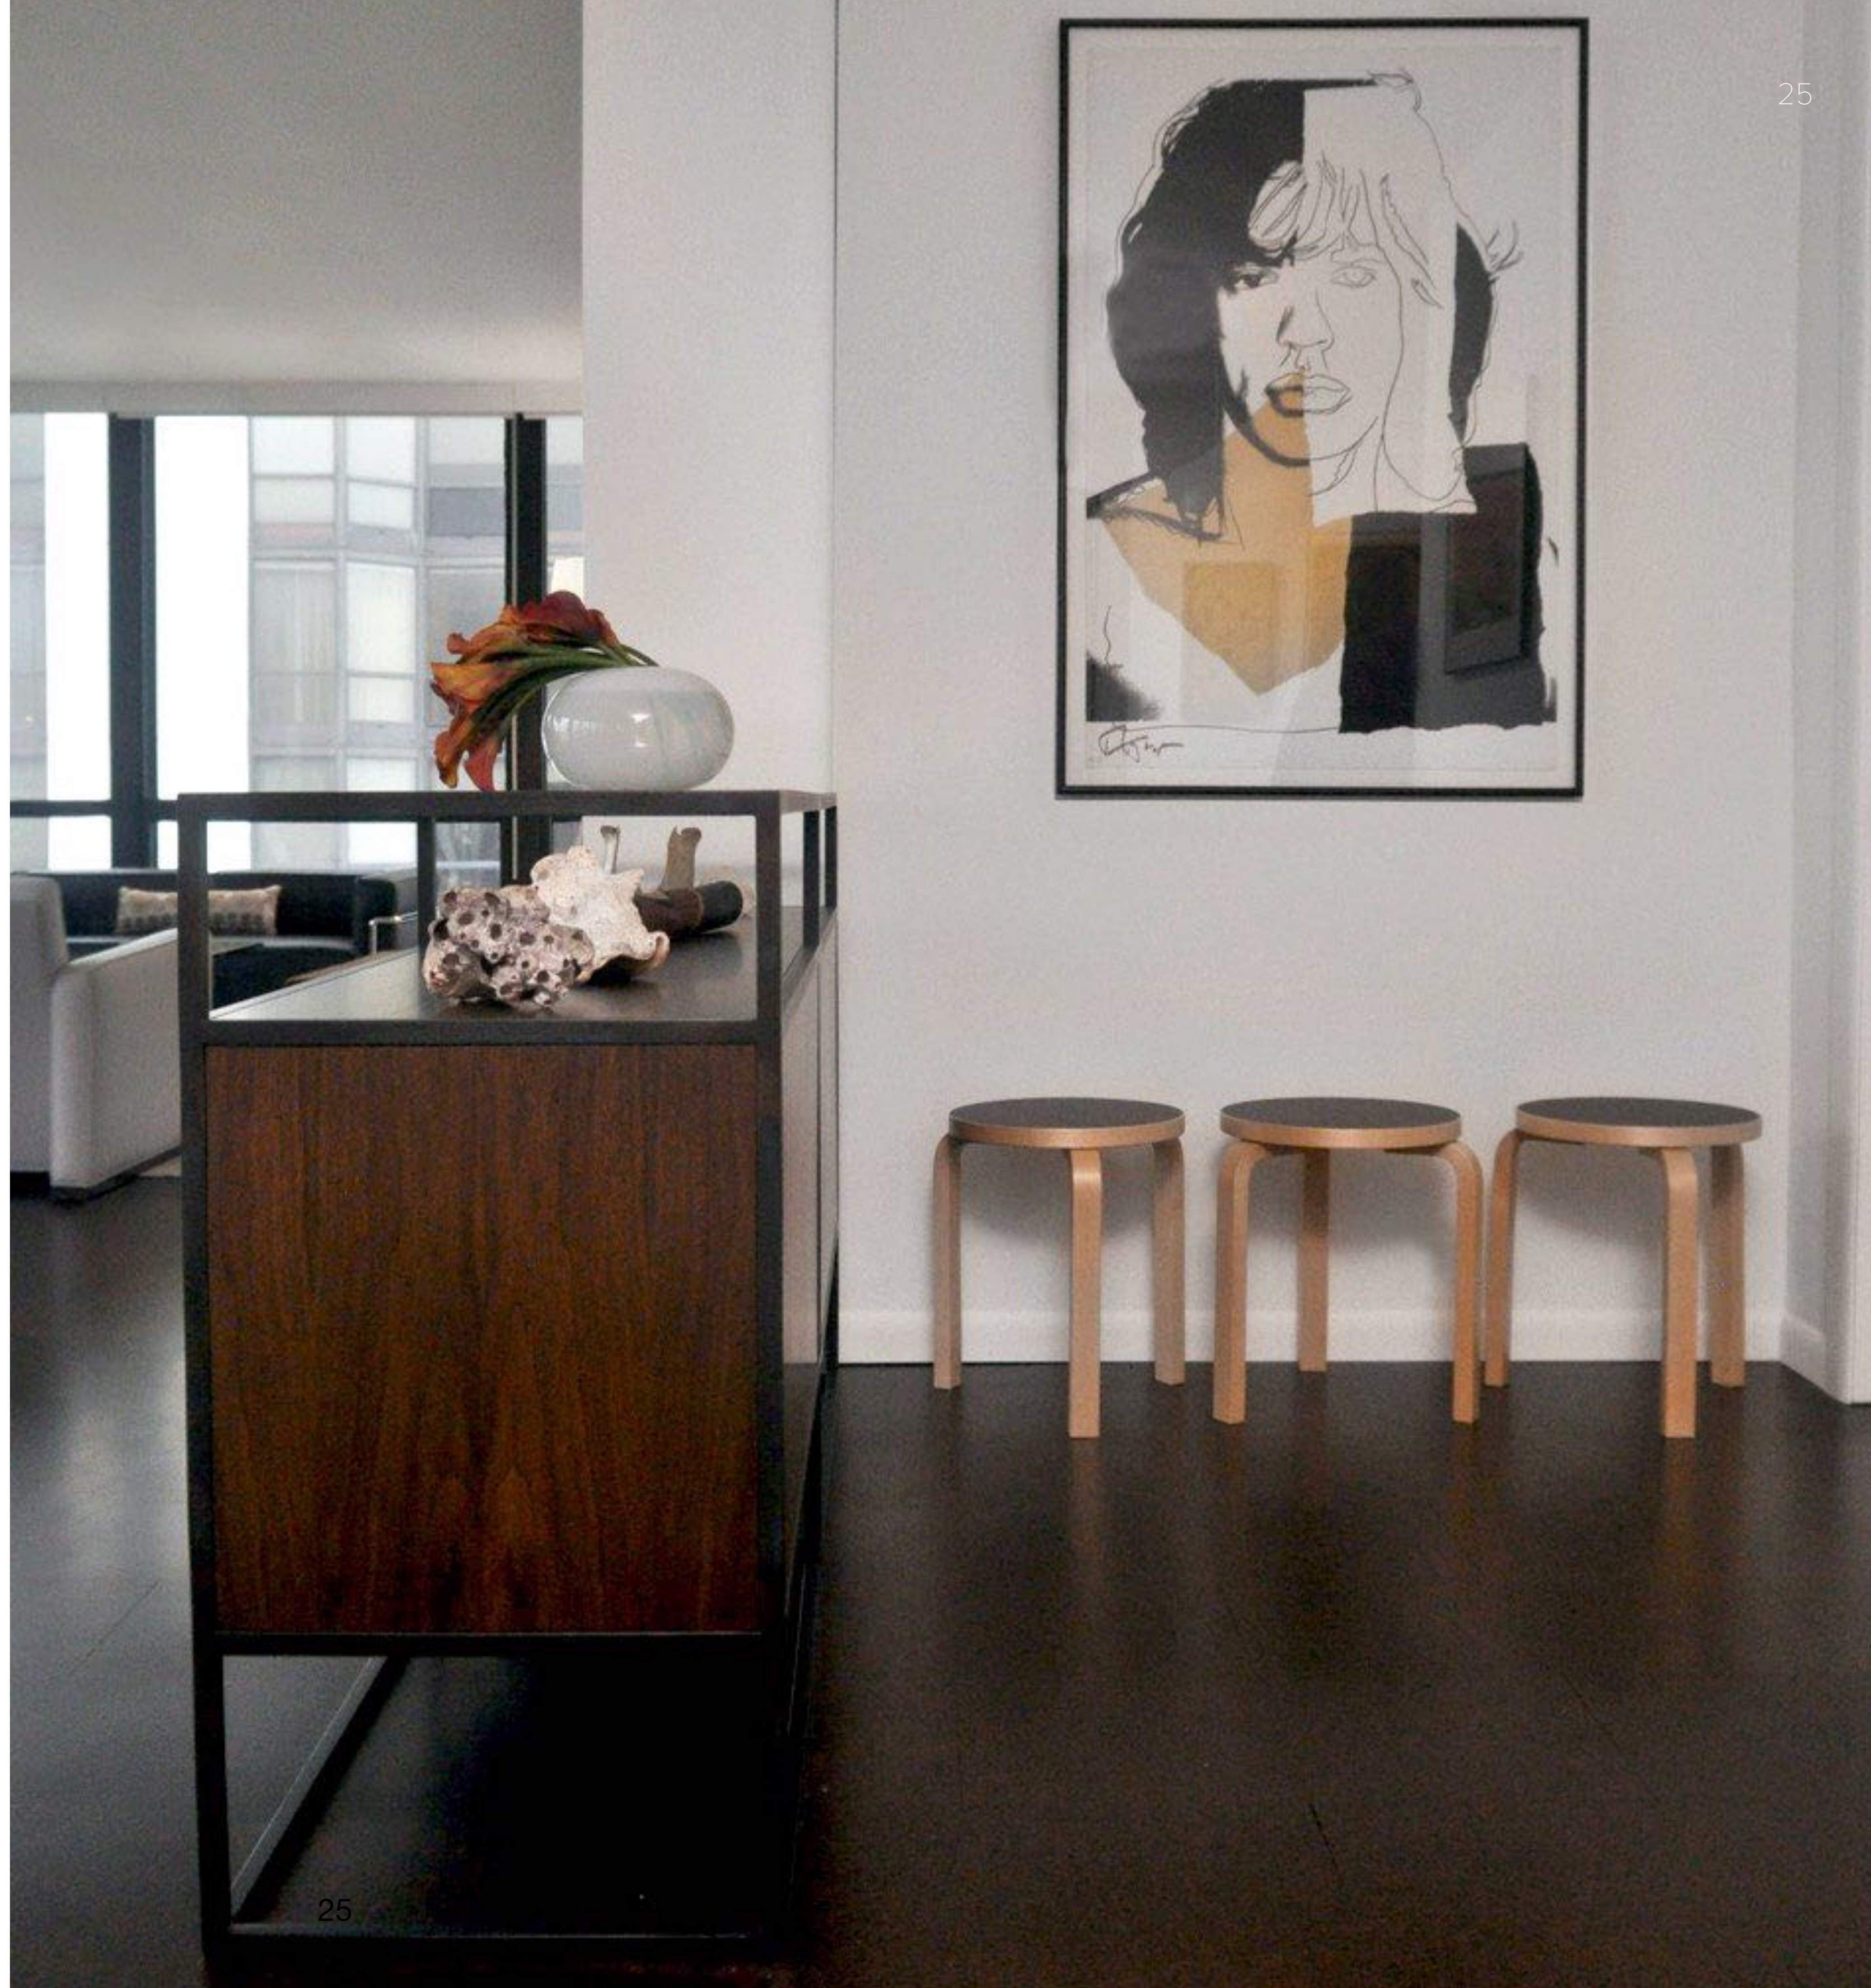

Reflect on the life you want and build it with intention. Ruminant on the details, get creative with form and function alike. A space specifically designed with life in mind will outlive any trend.

This highly functional, modern condo was born by seamlessly combining an adjacent unit, expanding doorways, restoring the original Marlo HVAC units, and incorporating new large-format cork flooring.

We designed a multi-zone space plan with iconic furnishings, stunningly simple Poliform bookcases, a stellar art collection, and a wealth of interesting objects.

Every choice was designed to highlight the condo's stunning lake views along with its owners' unique sense of style.

Meditate on your life often. Allow the surrounding world to fill you with intrigue and wanderlust. Get creative, reflect on the privilege that allows you to be the best version of yourself, engage in the outside world while offering comfort to dive deep within.

Our team completely redesigned the interior architecture of both the kitchen and bathroom in this single family home with a layout and aesthetic that was stuck in a 90s time warp.

We removed walls, changed window configurations and added architectural beams with light details to optimize layout in the bath.

We used the steel-looking matte stained lacquer on the cabinets as a throughline throughout the home and played with the contrast between white oak cabinets against driftwood-colored oak floors in the kitchen for a clean, bright, yet masculine feel.

BREATHE

A classic canvas, a dash of contemporary, a hint of modern—combine these elements to create a beautiful, integrated space, specifically tailored for those who inhabit it.

A full renovation of this South Loop Chicago condo took the couple living there seamlessly into their empty-nesting stage.

NMI led thoughtful interior architecture planning that resulted in displacing demising walls between the living and private areas, tapping into previously unused spaces, allowing for strategic furniture configuration and increased entertainment abilities.

Let's discuss our next project.

Email info@nm-interiors.com.

To see more of our work and to learn more about our process and team, visit nm-interiors.com.

Follow @nmidesign:

